

BAPTISTS SEEK UNITY

Washington Pastor Makes Plea for Union.

ASK BROTHERLY CO-OPERATION

Dr. Power Says Rift Should Be Closed—Baptists Near Each Other in Doctrine and Practice—Working Together Will Bring End for Which the Saviour Prayed.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 13.—The Baptist Congress to-day appointed a committee to establish summer vacation industrial schools throughout the city, in which the Bible may be taught to children during the summer holidays.

The committee was authorized to make a report as soon as possible upon the plan suggested, as it is proposed to open the schools July of next year and continue them until the public schools open for the fall term.

This latest step toward bringing children into the church is the result of the recent discussion on the part of the ministers attending the conference, regarding the relation of the church and the wage-earners.

According to the plan as outlined, the schools will be placed in the congested communities, and an effort will be made to get all school children to enter the vacation institutions instead of roaming about the streets.

The vacation industrial school plan has met with great success in three cities—namely, New York, Chicago, and Boston—and other cities are considering the advisability of adopting the system.

Church Union Proposed.

Rev. Dr. Frederick D. Power, pastor of the Disciples Church, of Washington, set forth one of the strongest arguments in behalf of the church union made during the afternoon. He said, in part:

"In any assembly of Baptist Churches of Christ, I feel, in a peculiar sense, at home. My grandparents, in old Virginia, were Baptists—members of Old Grifton, near Yorktown, a church constituted in 1820. Nineteen years later came the unfortunate 'Dover decrees,' and the church felt its liberty invaded and accepted the position of Alexander Campbell. Had it not been for John Kerr, who wrote those famous decrees, and the Dover Association, that passed them at Four-Mile Creek Church, near Richmond, in 1832, I doubtless would have been pastor to-day of a 'Baptist' instead of a 'Disciple' Church of Christ.

"It is fair to say, I think, there could not be found now, within the bounds of that association, a single man who would defend these articles which declared 'the cause of truth and righteousness' required a separation, and called upon those whom they deemed erring brethren to rise up and depart.

Rift Should Be Closed.

"On both sides there has been an increase of knowledge and of grace since that early time, and if North and South could shake hands in a brotherly embrace, and in a single generation stand shoulder to shoulder against a common foe, this little rift between us, beloved brethren, in Christ, should be closed in a moment.

"We of the great immersionist family—Baptists, Free Baptists, and Disciples—are near to each other in doctrine and practice, and hold vast interests in common. Indeed, it is historically true that the Disciples were never in favor of separation. Alexander Campbell declared ten days before he passed from earth, speaking on this subject, 'The Baptist, and we ought never to have separated. We might have remained one and come to a perfect agreement. It ought to have been so. It was never this purpose to withdraw from the Baptist fold, and his first publication is called 'The Christian Baptist.' If there were some radical differences then, they have been softened.

"Of course, there are Baptists and Baptists, as there are Disciples and Disciples. Extremes among Baptists are much more pronounced in matters of doctrine and practice and among Disciples as well, than is true of average Baptists and Disciples. Surely among brethren that stand so close together, there should be co-operation, fraternity, unity. The walls are thin. The barriers that keep us apart are trifling. The hindrances to our perfect fellowship would vanish at once, if all were willing to be led by the spirit of God.

Celebrate Campbell's Declaration.

"Disciples celebrate at Pittsburgh in 1909 the centennial of Thomas Campbell's great declaration and address, which sought to restore unity, peace, and purity to the whole church of God. Why should not prayer be made by both Baptists and Disciples for some practical steps toward union, which would crown that event with exceeding great joy.

"Brethren, we do not ask that the churches of Christ, known as Baptists, shall swallow up the Disciples, nor that the churches of Christ known as Disciples shall swallow up the Baptists, but we do seek the unity of the churches of Christ, on apostolic foundations.

"In union is strength. Our Lord prayed for union; let us pray for union. Let party barriers be laid low; let the churches of God stand forth in its true position. Let the Master be Lord, Head of the body, Prophet and Priest, Center and Cornerstone. King of Kings and Lord of Lords. Let the hearts of the millions who love Him lift up to the throne of a prayer-answering God, one earnest and concentrated volume of petition for the triumph of the truth and salvation of the world. Combination of forces, concord, unity, agreement, all working together with God and with each other will, under God, bring the end for which Jesus prayed."

Move to Prevent Combinations.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13.—When the legislature meets in January the insurance men will have another fight on their hands. It is the purpose of ex-Judge Martin Williams, of Pearisburg, Giles County, to renew in the house his battle for the re-enactment of the Wharton insurance law. This measure aims to prevent combinations for the purpose of raising premiums, and it is designed especially to reach the Southeastern Tariff Association.

Gen. Grant at Richmond.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13.—Gen. Fred Dent Grant, commanding the Department of the East, arrived in the city this afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, coming from the Jamestown exposition, where Gen. Grant has been stationed some time as a representative of the army.

CHERRYDALE CITIZENS MEET.

Discuss Location for New School Building.

Cherrydale, Alexandria County, Va., was the scene of a spirited meeting of the Washington District Citizens' Association Tuesday evening, C. C. Donaldson, president.

The question of a site for a new school building for Cherrydale was brought before the association by the school site and location committee, Messrs. Mackey, Harrison, and Donaldson, and considerable time was given to the subject. Addresses were made in favor of a location on Dominion Heights, fronting the Georgetown and Fairfax County road, by Commonwealth Attorney Cranford Mackey, S. H. Taggart, and Superintendent J. E. Clements, and a resolution was adopted to request the school trustees to approve the site.

SHOOTING AT BLADENBURG.

Early Morning Disturbance Has Serious Ending.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Hyattsville, Md., Nov. 13.—With a gunshot wound in his face as the result of raising a disturbance at his home, Bladensburg, this morning, Henry Radtke has been taken to the Emergency Hospital, Washington, for treatment.

It is alleged that about 2 o'clock this morning, Radtke, who, it is said, had been drinking, was disturbing the neighborhood, and Constable Haller was called in an effort to quiet the man. A neighbor, F. M. Haber, went to Miller's assistance, carrying a rifle with him. This, it is said, enraged Radtke, and he made for Haber, where the result was a gunshot wound in the face of the latter. Constable Miller has secured a warrant for Haber, charging him with assault and battery with intent to kill.

CHARGED WITH COLLUSION

Storekeeper and Gauger on Trial for Attempt to Defraud Government.

Prosecution Result of Recent Raids on Virginia Distilleries—Expect Sensational Developments.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Danville, Va., Nov. 13.—The entire session of the United States Court here to-day was taken up in the trial of C. J. George, a former storekeeper and gauger at Toler's Distillery, Franklin Junction, who is charged with collusion to defraud the government. Toler and George were arrested, following a raid by revenue officers. Toler compromised his case. The evidence had not been concluded when court adjourned this evening.

The Federal grand jury returned nineteen indictments this afternoon for violations of the revenue laws. The indictments consist mostly of moonshiners, and for retailing without license. They were not made public. This grand jury to-morrow will take up the investigation of the frauds by bonded distillers, and sensational developments are expected.

FIELD TRIALS SUCCESSFUL.

Judges Unanimous in Selecting Winners of Contest.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Laurel, Md., Nov. 13.—The second day's trial of the Maryland, Virginia, and District of Columbia Field Trials Association, held at Springfield to-day, about ten miles from Laurel, was largely attended. The judges were unanimous in their selections in the all-age stake, which resulted as follows: Milton, first, Joseph A. Hinds, of Baltimore; Grace G., second, Grayson Gent, of Baltimore; Queen Lil, third, special appeal, D. L. Lauman, of Smith's Rod, fourth, Joseph A. Hinds. Members of the association remained over to-night to attend a fox hunt to-morrow, which promises to be interesting. The hunters are pleased with the high class of dogs entered this year, and express a desire to come back next year.

BELIEVE FUGITIVE CAME HERE

Hagerstown Man, Woman, and Cash Are Missing.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 13.—Paul Price, Hagerstown representative of Thornley Brothers, commission merchants of Pittsburgh, has disappeared and, according to a statement made by a member of the firm, Price's accounts are short about $1,200.

Price had been located here since the beginning of the apple-buying season early in August. He was known among his friends as "high roller," and is said to have left here with a Hagerstown woman, and to have gone to Washington. They are believed to be in a southern city. A warrant is out for Price's arrest.

MAN JUMPS TO DEATH.

Leaps from Lynchburg Bridge into James River.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 13.—An unknown white man, apparently about forty years of age, committed suicide here to-day by jumping into the James River from the Amherst Bridge. The body came to the surface 200 yards below. The man has been dragged all day for the body, and to-night fresh men have taken up the work.

The suicide is a stranger and all efforts to arrive at his identity have been unavailing. He had a hat and umbrella, which he discarded on the bridge, appear to have been bought in New York.

Verdict Angers Prosecuting Attorney.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 13.—Rufus Pringle was to-day acquitted of the charge of having murdered W. A. Conley in April last. The defendant pleaded self-defense. After the jury was discharged, Prosecuting Attorney S. B. Avis met one of them, Robert Bresnahan, and publicly took him to task for his part in the rendering of such a verdict. Only the interposition of mutual friends prevented an affray between the two men.

Fulton Must Hang.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13.—Gov. Swanson this afternoon declined to commute the sentence of Noah Fulton, of Washington County, who is to hang on Friday for murder.

Aquitted of Youth's Murder.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—A jury in the circuit court to-day acquitted Jacob Schuck, forty years old, of the charge of murder. Schuck caused the death of Charles Little, eighteen years old, Schuck and Little were employed with the Chesapeake Brick Company at Curtis Bay, and as the result of a quarrel, Schuck struck the boy in the head with a brick. Schuck admitted throwing the brick, but said he did not throw it to strike the boy.

Judge McSherry's Memorial Service.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—Chief Judge Boyd, of the Court of appeals, has set November 25 as the date for holding memorial services to the late Chief Justice James McSherry.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Midgents' Appeal Is Denied. May Be Resentenced.

CLEMENCY IS IMPROBABLE

Governor Will Not Interfere with Court's Verdict. It Is Said—Washington-Mount Vernon Boulevard Discussed—Philadelphia Masons Are the Guests of Alexandria Lodge.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 13.—Attorneys concerned in the case of George Midgents, colored, convicted of the murder of Charles T. Smith in this city October 20, 1905, were notified to-day that the State Court of Appeals had this morning dismissed the writ of error and supersedeas granted several months ago. It was stated that the order for dismissal was entered on the ground that the writ had been improvidently awarded. The former action has served as a stay of execution, Midgents having been sentenced to be hanged in this city May 24 last.

After the judgment has been sent by the Appellate Court to the Corporation Court, Midgents will be brought to Alexandria from Fredericksburg, where he has been since his conviction, and will be resented by Judge Barley. It is stated that Gov. Swanson has indicated that he has no intention of interfering in the matter. In the event that executive clemency is denied, it is stated that counsel for the defense will have no further resort except appeal to the United States Supreme Court, and it is said to be improbable that an effort will be made to take the case to the highest court.

Midgents was tried in the Corporation Court last spring and was under guard of State troops during the entire trial. At the conclusion of the case he was removed to the jail in Fredericksburg, because it was feared that he would be exposed to the danger of lynching if he remained in this city. He was defended by Attorneys R. D. Brumback and Howard W. Smith. Commonwealth's Attorney Samuel G. Brent conducted the prosecution.

Question of Boulevard Discussed.

Questions concerning the right of way for the proposed Mount Vernon avenue from Washington to Mount Vernon were discussed at a called meeting of the executive committee of the Mount Vernon Avenue Association, held this afternoon at 111 South Fairfax street. It was resolved that at the next terms of the Circuit Court for Alexandria and Fairfax counties, a request would be presented for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain what property it would be necessary to condemn in order to extend the thoroughfare along the course mapped out. It is provided in the charter of the association that the commissioners appointed by the court shall take into consideration the benefits, as well as the damages, that will follow to property from the construction of the highway.

A meeting of the George Washington Birthday Association has been called by President A. D. Brackett for next Monday night at 8 o'clock, when the annual election of officers will be held. The association will also discuss plans for the annual celebration of the Washington birthday anniversary. In order to secure the opinion of merchants and others as to the feasibility of a great street parade, an special committee on arrangements will be appointed.

The funeral of William H. Davis, whose death occurred Monday, took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from his late home, 218 Queen street, and was attended by many friends and relatives of the deceased. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles D. Bulla, of the M. E. Church South. The pallbearers were George E. Price, Park Timberman, T. Ballenger, Oliver Underwood, James Talbot, and J. F. Cook. The burial was in Bethel Cemetery.

The ceremonies incident to the conferring of the Master Mason's degree will be witnessed to-morrow evening in the lodge room of Alexandria-Washington Lodge by twenty-five or thirty members of William L. Elkin Lodge, No. 446, of Philadelphia, who will be present by invitation.

The funeral of Capt. Carey Davis was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 501 Prince street. Rev. Dr. W. W. Van Arsde, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted the services, and the interment was made in Union Cemetery. The pallbearers were Stephen Davis, John Sutton, Louis Hart, William McKenney, Edward Sutherland, and James Hall.

Addresses before the local council of Jewish Women will be delivered by the supreme officers of the order to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the synagogue on North Washington street. A reception will follow.

Accused of Passing Worthless Checks.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 13.—Luther Goode and W. A. Maher, representing the Life Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, with an office here, have skipped out after passing a score of bogus checks on Staunton merchants. Maher was superintendent of the local office and Goode was an agent. Sixty dollars in checks came up to-day against Goode and forty dollars against Maher. They have been discharged from service with the insurance company.

MANY SEE THE BLOOMS.

Flower Exhibit in Rifles' Armory Ends To-day.

The grand floral exhibition offered by the Florists' Club of this city for the benefit of the Associated Charities, and now in progress at the National Rifles' Armory, attracted to-day a large and steady stream of well-known society people and lovers of the blooms. Some of the exhibits will be rearranged and others will be augmented with fresh flowers for to-day, which will be the last of the show.

A well-known society leader said last night: "I have often seen the Boston show, but I never saw half the taste displayed in arrangement as the Washington florists have shown. It is simply charming." This being the last day, the projectors of the show expect the exhibition will be crowded, and that the fund which will be turned over to the Associated Charities will receive a big addition. All flowers and plants not claimed by outside exhibitors will be disposed of, the proceeds to go to charity.

BURTON HOLMES ON BERLIN.

Noted Lecturer Will Be at Columbia Theater Sunday.

Berlin, the best governed city of all Europe, is the topic of the first travelogue in the annual series of finely-illustrated lectures to be given at the Columbia Theater by Burton Holmes.

To the German-American these glimpses of the Fatherland cannot but be intensely interesting, for, through Mr. Holmes' eyes, and through the lenses of his camera, he and the other members of his audience, of whatever nationality, may look as from a car window out upon the familiar streets and scenes of Berlin; may behold the Kaiser reviewing troops, conversing with his officers, with his family, at horse races, and on the bridge of one of the ships of his navy.

By means of motion pictures and his finely colored still views, Mr. Holmes will take his audience to the many points of interest in the city itself, and also personally conduct them to the thriving seaport of Hamburg—the quaint island of Heligoland, and will also take them for a day's outing to the delightful neighboring village of the Spreewald, a veritable wooded, rural Venice, the paradise of the Berlin pleasure-seeker.

Mr. Holmes will give Berlin next Sunday evening at 8:30, and will repeat the lecture on Monday afternoon at 4:30.
